

Inspiration

This journey began around 2015. Our city of over 100,000 includes California State University, Chico. It is a hub of other smaller towns and has had a challenge with unhoused people. In this city is The Jesus Center, a facility with a kitchen, supported by volunteers, grants and donations where folks can get meals.

Next door to the center was a store where free newspapers were offered, in their stands. I asked the owner of the store if I could set out free literature as well. He would only allow it if I had a newspaper stand. My friend’s husband was just getting into welding and I asked him to make the stand. At first, other free papers would use our stand for their giveaways. People would put their cups on it and leave them there, etc.

I read that eyes on the person, even if in a picture, helps to remind them that someone is watching. I found these beautiful eyes online. But just as I was enhancing our stand with the eyes, the store exchanged hands and the new owner didn’t want news stands in front of his store.

It took some searching, but eventually this spot came to mind. It’s at a train/bus depot and this location is next to the place where travelers wait to catch trains. Behind this building is a shaded grassy park where people like to spend their days.

When I service the Monitor stand, I’m ready to clean it. I wear my garden gloves, bring a spray bottle, rag, hand broom and dust pan. Debris gathers at the base, which looks better when swept clean. I also pick up any trash around the area. In this way, our presence enhances the area. I have never seen any of our literature tossed to the ground.

Back when the stand first appeared in front of the store, as I was serving in the Chico Reading Room downtown, a man came in and bought a Science and Health. He said he went to Christian Science Sunday School when he was a boy. He recently started reading the Sentinels and the Monitors that he found at the stand next to the Jesus Center, and wanted to read “the book.” I can’t help but think there are others with similar stories, or folks just curious about Christian Science.

Resources to help share The Christian Science Monitor

The Christian Science Monitor has taken a step unique in the news industry by focusing on the values behind the news—values that connect us all, including hope, cooperation, and compassion. These provide readers a deeper view of the news and highlight the solutions that unite rather than divide.

This approach is reflected by founder Mary Baker Eddy’s description of the Monitor’s purpose: "To injure no man, but to bless all mankind."

You can explore the Monitor’s values journalism at CSMonitor.com/Values.

To help Reading Rooms share the Monitor with those searching for a news source with an uplifting, purposeful mission they can trust, promotional materials (posters, flyers, fact sheet, digital slides, and an announcement you may include in your own church’s communications) are provided in the Reading Room Press Kit. A Reading Room press kit with supporting promotional materials (fact sheet, posters, and more) is available in the Reading Room Dropbox.

Interested in sharing a photo of your display? Let us know how your Reading Room is sharing the Monitor with your community by emailing us at opendoors@csp.com. Thank you for your support of the Monitor.

An upcoming series from The Christian Science Monitor

“Climate Generation: Born into crisis, building solutions”

Coming in November: A global project by the Monitor’s Americas Bureau Chief, Sara Miller Llana, and Environment and Climate Change writer, Stephanie Hanes, will look at climate change as the world’s most powerful driver of innovation and progress – a transformation that one generation in particular is poised to lead.

The series will focus on the role of those born after the UN’s significant codification of children’s rights in 1989 in addressing climate change. The stories will include vivid Monitor photography, and will be written from Indigenous Northern Canada, Bangladesh, Namibia, and Barbados.

The first story launches in early November and will be followed by weekly individual cover stories for six weeks through late December. Each article will be featured in the Weekly and on the Monitor’s website with a dedicated, interactive landing page to explore and share. Reading Rooms may fill out this form to order additional copies of the Weekly issues.

The Reading Room press kit includes supporting promotional materials (fact sheet, posters, digital slides, and more), added to the Reading Room Dropbox in time to share with your community in creative ways.

Thank you for your support in sharing The Christian Science Monitor with your community!

DISPLAY AND PROMOTIONAL RESOURCES

Spark conversations about church

Explore two new resource guides—one for teens and twenty-somethings and the other for church members, parents, and Sunday School teachers—about why we are all needed in church and how we can strengthen church and our church communities.

We hope these guides bring fresh inspiration and spark questions, ideas, and conversations. We invite you to share these guides with your church community. We hope the Quick Sheet gives you a starting place in how you and your church community can use the guides and ways to share them.

You can access the guides online here. We'll also be mailing hard copies of the guides to your local branch Sunday Schools. Be on the lookout for these guides mid-November.

Thinking about Thanksgiving

As we are thinking about Thanksgiving, we'd like to remind you what is available. As in past years, the Bible Lesson will be available in a variety of formats and languages. You can find Thanksgiving promotional materials, including Save the Date cards, in the Reading Room Dropbox. There will not be new art created for promotional pieces this year, but the beautiful art that has been available previously is available again. In addition, you can also find the covers to the Thanksgiving Bible Lessons in English, French, German, Portuguese, and Spanish.
